DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgment is made of the request for reconsideration filed 7/10/03. Claims pending are 8/17.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. The rejection of Claims 8-17 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Runge et al. in view of either Riley or Gellermann et al. is maintained for the reasons of the record.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 7/10/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Applicant argues that "none of the examples set forth in Runge appear to disclose combinations of  $\beta$ -carotene, lycopene and lutein in accordance with the claimed ratios by weight". See p. 3 of the reply. In response, it is noted that Runge et al. explicitly teach combinations of  $\beta$ -carotene, lycopene and lutein having the claimed ratios by weight. Thus, Runge et al. teach oral carotenoid formulations containing 1 part or 0.5-20 mg of  $\beta$ -carotene, 0.1 to 5 parts or 0.5-20 mg of lycopene and 0.1 to 5 parts or 0.5-20 mg of lutein dispersed in edible oil. See US 6,261,598 at col. 1, lines 58-67; col. 2, lines 1-11; col. 3, lines 12-18; col. 4, lines 21-32.

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 which teach that carotenoid-containing oral formulations useful for protecting against UV radiation and aging due to the effects of solar radiation. See Riley at col. 7, lines 58-63; col. 8, lines 40-45; col. 20-21, Table; Gellermann et al. at col. 8, lines 12-19, 30-40. One of ordinary skill would have been motivated to use the oral formulations of Runge et al. for protecting the skin from damaging effects of sunlight and for inhibiting skin aging. with a reasonable expectation of success because Riley or Gellermann et al. suggest that the claimed combination of carotenoids is effective in protecting the skin from solar radiation which can lead to premature skin aging.

F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation is found in either Riley or Gellermann et al.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).
